WE WOULDN'T BUY IT IF WE COULDN'T HEAR IT EITHER.

That's why we created our 30-day in-home trial and satisfaction guarantee.

So you can hear the Bose® Wave® radio/CD where you can judge it best – in your home.

You'll experience music so rich and spacious, it envelops you. So crystal clear, you'll hear each voice and instrument. So lifelike, you'll understand why audio critic Rich Warren says the Wave radio/CD gives him "a small thrill" each time he hears it.

Website etown.com was so impressed, they gave this compact system their highest rating, explaining "there is literally nothing else like it." We're confident you'll agree. In fact, once you hear the difference our patented acoustic waveguide speaker technology makes, we think you'll understand why Bose is the most respected name in sound.

Quality like this deserves to be heard. And that's exactly what our 30-day in-home trial lets you do. You order the Wave radio/CD or Wave radio. You listen.

You decide. If you're not completely satisfied, and can bear to part with it, return it within 30 days for a full refund of your purchase price. We'll even arrange to have it collected at no cost to you. It's that simple.

Call today to take advantage of our interest-free payment plan. More importantly, hear the sound that will make you a believer, too.

LIVE FORD GOLF USA: US OPEN 2001 SKY SPORTS 2 4.30PM

Tiger Woods's (pictured) spectacular victory with a 15-shot margin in last year's US Open at Pebble Beach, California, denied South Africa's Ernie Els his third Open title. Els will be back looking to turn the tables on the American this year as the competition moves to the Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Other title contenders include Phil Mickelson and Vijay Singh. But the 25-year-old golfing phenomenon will be unstoppable if he continues the recent form which saw him win the Players Championship in March.

LIVE SUPER LEAGUE: HULL FC V LEEDS RHINOS SKY SPORTS 1 7.30PM

Leeds travel to Hull for a clash which will bring back bitter memories for the home side. The powerful Rhinos, led by captain Iestyn Harris (pictured, right), enjoyed a narrow Silk Cup quarter-final victory against Hull in March. However, the tables turned in April's Super League clash, when Hull beat the Rhinos with a slim two-point margin at Headingley, helped by two tries from Hull's scrum-half Tony Smith (pictured, left). The visitors' coach, Daryl Powell will be looking to Harris to encourage his team again tonight.

Daddy dearest

In the words of that infamous Beatle tune, money can't buy you love, but then which would you rather be – rich and unhappy or poor and unhappy? For those who resent not having the chance to be the former, Sky One eases the pain with a timely Father's Day showing of My Dad's Famous, examining what it's like to grow up under the spotlight. This one-off special asserts that fame and fortune are not all they're cracked up to be – at least for the child of a celebrity. Sure, there's the glitz and the glamour of a privileged lifestyle and yes, famous people will sit around your pool. But poor little junior will also have to put up with more than his fair share of teasing at school – unless, of course, he goes to a school where you'd be teased if your parents weren't famous. There's also the less enviable hassle of tabloid intrusion – whether celeb parents split up, have an extra marital affair, or an alcohol and drug dependency problem, you can bet that junior will first find out about it from the newspapers. And, although daddy may be recognized all over the world and earn more money in an afternoon than most people earn in a year, what's it like when family life takes second place behind international stardom? Using rare home video footage, prepare to meet Sacha and Tara Newley (son and daughter of Joan Collins and Anthony Newley), Gary Morecambe (son of Eric), Michael and Sarah Sellers (son and daughter of Peter), Julie Forsyth (daughter of Bruce), Toni Hadley (daughter of Tony), Hannah Waterman (daughter of Dennis), Hanna Ali (daughter of Muhammad) and Venisha Brown (daughter of James, Godfather of Soul).

Saturday Night's all right for dancing

Turn on your lava lamp and dig up the flares as VH1 brings you Behind the Music: Saturday Night Fever. Starting life as a brilliant piece of journalism (later admitted as fake) by Nik Cohn, the 1977 film retained enough of Cohn's grit to be much more than just another teen movie. Directed by John Badham, it had flash, excitement and a crackling youthfulness, but it was the dance numbers and John Travolta that captured us. Together they made disco and the white polyester suit rule the dance floors – quite something for a film that technically wasn't a musical. Travolta, plucked from TV sitcom obscurity, became a 1970s emblem as Tony Manero, while that pulsing Bee Gees score dominated the soundtrack with such disco classics as Stayin' Alive (Travolta's opening strutting theme) and Night Fever. The film was big, but its music, and the subsequent massive album (one of the best-selling soundtracks ever), was bigger. Inevitably, they fed each other – a crossover that set the pace for many movies to come.

Dead men walking

Little did Pittsburgh-based commercials and industrial film specialist George A Romero realize when he started shooting his no-budget exploitation picture Night of the Living Dead (1968), that the raw and unrelenting result would come to be regarded as one of the absolute masterpieces of the horror genre. His pessimistic tone and graphic images of a nightmarish zombie apocalypse, unflinchingly presented in inky, documentary-style black and white, terrified unwitting drive-in movie-goers and opened the floodgates for a new wave of more explicit fright films directed by the likes of David Cronenberg and John Carpenter. The bulk of the movie takes the form of a claustrophobic siege scenario, with a set of incompatible characters barricading themselves inside a farmhouse from which they are forced to fight off the army of the undead that surrounds it. As the flesh-hungry ghouls gather forces, the survivors argue over the safest course of action: should they decamp to the cellar or take their chances upstairs in the house? The film's budgetary limitations inspire a stark visual style, and Romero proves he has the courage of his convictions by maintaining its bleak, doom-laden perspective right to the bitter end, where he pummels the viewer with an incredibly downbeat punchline that still has the power to shock. This seminal fright flick was followed by two sequels: the near-brilliant Dawn of the Dead (1979) and the disappointing Day of the Dead (1985).

| LIVE MOTORCYCLING: MOTOGP IN CATALUNYA, SPAINBRITISH EUROSPORT FROM 9.00AMValentino Rossi (pictured) enjoyed a stunning start to the MotoGP 2001 season with a hat trick of Grand Prix wins in Japan, South Africa and Jerez in Spain. The 22-year-old Italian - who is a former 125cc and 250cc world champion - is certainly helping his team Honda live up to pre-season predictions. But the season is looking bleak for current 500cc champion Kenny Roberts - who beat Rossi into second place last year - as his new Suzuki is struggling against the might of the Hondas. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | PLAYBOY TV/ADULT CHANNELADD-ON CHANNEL10.00pm Freeview 10.05 Stripsearch: Miami 11.15 Erotic Confessions12midnight Freeview12.10am FILM: Seductive Co-Eds 1.00 Freeview 1.05 FILM continues 1.25 Union Jaxx 1.50 Teledaddiction 3.00 Star3.30-4.00am Breast FilesAdult Nightview is now available as a TV on-demand service between 10.00pm and 4.00am at £4.95. |   TENNIS: DFS CLASSIC - FINAL SKY SPORTS 1 5.00PM, 9.30PM           Birmingham's Edgbaston Priory Club is the venue for the final of the DFS Classic - a grass court tournament which offers the players a chance to warm up for Wimbledon later in the month. Nathalie Tauziat (pictured) was a losing finalist here in 1999 and 1996, so this year the French star will hope to go one better. However, last year's winner Lisa Raymond - the American who beat her compatriot Jennifer Capriati in a three-set final - will hope to retain her title and claim the $26,000 winner's cheque.                PLAYBOY TV/ADULT CHANNEL ADD-ON CHANNEL           10.00pm Freeview 10.05           Real Couples 2 10.45           Sexcetera 15 12midnight           Freeview 12.10am Twins           Behaving Badly 12.40           Panties 1.00 Freeview 1.05           Programme continues 1.10           FILM: Birthday Suit 2.20           Love Truck 2.55-4.00am           FILM: Adult Feature           Adult Nightview is now available as a TV on-demand service between 12midnight and 4.00am at £4.95. # Star vehicles

Watching the thrilling, tyre-screeching showdown between the Porsche 911 and the Audi TT in the premiere of Mission: Impossible 2 got Vicki Butler-Henderson reminiscing about other memorable screen motors

THIS MONTH the explosive Mission: Impossible 2 makes its bow on Front Row. I am a huge fan of star Tom Cruise, if only because of the teenage crush I developed after seeing him in Top Gun. I'm also a fan of any adrenalin-charged car chase. And MI:2 certainly doesn't fail to deliver in that department, as it includes a brilliantly edited game of one-upmanship involving a Porsche 911 and an Audi TT.

Personally, I'd take the 911 because it's the most powerful of the two models, and its rear-wheel-drive chassis will always entertain its driver with some exhilarating back-end action. It's also an extremely cool cult car.

Admittedly, Audi's TT is one of the most beautifully sculptured cars ever. Its four-wheel-drive chassis ensures more cornering traction than the 911, but you can still get it out of shape with a hefty right foot and some ham-fisted steering moves. No, if it's a pose-mobile you're after, rather than a getaway car, then the TT will fit the bill perfectly.

If you think about films that feature cars to die for, then the James Bond series must surely come top of the list. Every 007 has had the key to a saucy motor or two, adorned with badges from the likes of Aston Martin, Lotus and BMW. The latest in the line is current Bond Pierce Brosnan's BMW Z8 – a somewhat controversial choice because it's not exactly a quintessentially British vehicle. It is, however, a rip-snorthing £80,000 of retro-looking metal wrapped around a 5.0 litre V8 engine. With a very naughty 400 brake horsepower and a rear-wheel-drive chassis, it is agile and fantastically fast. This really is a car to razz around mountain roads – while being pursued by gun-crazed supervillains in helicopters, naturally.

The inclusion of car chases in films is important – and not only because it gives the producers an excuse to borrow sought-after performance cars for a few months. A skilfully directed sequence involving a highly desirable car screeching across the screen in a blaze of burning rubber makes the movie much more appealing, exciting and memorable. And the cooler the car the better.

Magnum PI had his Ferrari, Steve McQueen zoomed his Mustang around San Francisco in Bullitt, while The Cannonball Run was positively littered with Lamborghinis.

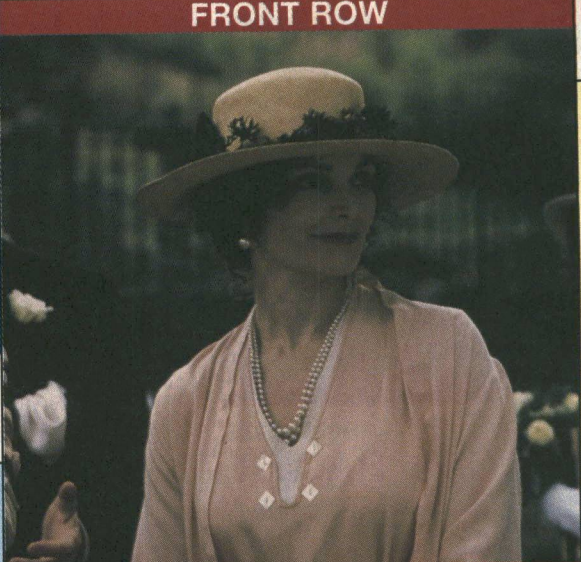

But a car doesn't have to be the latest, state-of-the-art model to impress movie-goers. Michael Caine made use of a lorry-load of Minis in the classic heist comedy The Italian Job, and Herbie was a Volkswagen Beetle. Not exactly prestige vehicles, but both models made big impacts on their respective films: they added character and an endearing sense of cheekiness to the plots.

But the ultimate cult screen car has to be Del Boy's Reliant Robin in the much-loved sitcom Only Fools and Horses. Never has such a vehicle become such an icon. A three-wheeler van – not very sexy, is it? But, you never know, it may have looked good in Mission: Impossible 2, if only for the comedy value.

It was Australian Karrie Webb's turn last year, but in 2001, the dominant player has been Annika Sorenstam (pictured), who has been on an unprecedented winning streak as well as breaking 60 for one round at the Standard Register Ping tournament in March. The Swede would have started as favourite to retain her Evian Masters title at the Royal Evian Golf Club, Haute-Savoie, France.      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

The world on a plate

Try a change of menu while on your travels this year, suggests Ross Burden, and taste the difference!

THE annual week at a boarding house in Skeggy is a thing of the past and now many Britons prefer to head off for foreign climes and guaranteed sunshine.

But you needn't head abroad. The wilds of Cornwall are still high on the list for many people as a holiday destination, and it's not all haddock and mushy peas. Cornwall has a glorious gastronomic history. Trade with peoples as distant as the Phoenicians means that saffron and ginger are used in the local baking, and the pies aren't all pasty shaped. The seafood is a particular delight with fresh local fish always worth relishing, such as lobsters, squid, oysters and mussels.

But those who want to venture further from home on their holidays have made destinations such as Florida extremely popular. There are new wave American and Latino joints popping up all over Miami, but my favourite eating place when I was there was the Yuca Restaurant; the name is taken from the popular Latin-American staple, which tastes like sweet potato. Everything from wheatgrass juice to tamales (small steamed Mexican corn cakes) are on offer. Seafood is a state speciality, and Miami's fresh stone crabs are not found anywhere else in America, so make the most of them.

Europe still seems like an open larder to me, with half the items in it having their labels obscured. Italy and Spain aren't all pasta and paella, but it takes a child's inquisitive nature or a degree in zoology, to find out some of the protein sources!

In Italy's Puglia you can get coniglio ai capperi (rabbit cooked with capers), while Tuscany offers sweet specialities such as ricciarelli (a delicate biscuit of honey and almonds from Siena).

I spent a happy afternoon sipping manzanilla and eating octopus in downtown Malaga a few years ago. An unlikely combination, but to be highly recommended. Manzanilla is a dry, pale sherry that's perfect with seafood.

The tradition of Spanish tapas is well worth exploring. There are all sorts of unlikely but delicious treats, such as stuffed chillies, kidneys in sherry and potatoes with hot mayonnaise. Any chance to try razor clams, pigs' tongues and ink stewed squid should be tried (if only once!).

This should be made with the favourite fish of Iberia, hake, but if you can't find it, use cod or haddock. Serves 4

- 3 tbsps olive oil
- 1 large onion, peeled and finely sliced
- 4 garlic cloves (or to taste), finely sliced
- 2 tsps paprika
- 100g sliced chorizo, cut into 1cm cubes
- 1 green pepper, diced
- 800g floury potatoes, diced or salad potatoes, halved
- 90ml manzanilla or fino sherry
- 300-400ml water
- 4 hake/cod/haddock steaks of 200-250g
- Bunch flat leaf parsley, leaves only, chopped

HAKE WITH PEPPERS, POTATOES AND CHORIZO

In a deep frying pan or similar, cook the onion and garlic in the oil until soft. Add the paprika, chorizo and pepper. Season and cook for five minutes on medium. Add the potatoes, wine and water. Simmer for about 12 minutes, until the potatoes start to soften. Add the fish, season with black pepper and cover. Simmer for a further eight to ten minutes, turning the fish once. A minute before serving, stir through the parsley.

LIVE TENNIS: NOTTINGHAM OPEN SKY SPORTS 2 1.30PM

This $375,000 tournament at the City of Nottingham Tennis Centre has been a proving ground for some of Britain's top players in recent years, and Greg Rusedski counts his 1997 victory among his honours. This year, this pre-Wimbledon warm-up will also feature American challengers, like their latest teenage sensation Andy Roddick (pictured, left) and Davis Cup stalwart Jan-Michael Gambill (pictured, right). Britain's new young hope Lee Childs could also spring a few surprises on the grass.

The first-ever Cherished Teddies™ Carousel

Remember the magic of the merry-go-round? How the old pipe organ music filled the air as you sat tall in the saddle of your brightly painted steed? The sights and sounds of the fair whirled around you as you rode up and down into the night.

Now you can rekindle those fond childhood memories with the very first Cherished Teddies™ Carousel by Priscilla Hillman.

First 'Gina' enjoys a dizzying spin on the magical carousel. Then all around her, on their beautifully decorated carousel animals are her teddie friends, enjoying their own breezy ride. Each one is as beautifully sculpted and sweetly dressed as the one before. And what's more, the wooden carousel display stand is included completely FREE of charge!

Priscilla Hillman's Cherished Teddies™ never fail to create a huge demand. And as the first-ever Cherished Teddies™ Carousel, we are anticipating an enormous response. So please, make sure you return your Subscription Reservation Form today or telephone the Order Hotline on
